FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASEDIGI-NET SIGNS TECHNOLOGY PARTNERSHIP WITH EXCELSIOR

Partnership further advances Digi-Net's technology platform

ATLANTA, May 6, 2004 – Digi-Net Technologies, Inc., a leader in messaging technology for e-commerce and online collaboration applications, today announced a technology partnership with Excelsior, LLC, leading providers of Java™ performance and compiler solutions. This partnership will significantly advance Digi-Net's technology platform by utilizing Excelsior's unique expertise and innovative technology in Java performance tuning compilation and virtual machines.

“By introducing Excelsior's technology into our development process, we will deliver stronger products with significant improvements in performance, scalability and security,” said Robert Parker, Digi-Net CEO & Founder. “This partnership allows our engineers to leverage Excelsior's specialized experience in Java performance solutions furthering our lead in the online collaboration space.

As part of the technology partnership, Excelsior's product development and future test suites will include all of the Digi-Net solutions to optimize performance and ensure future compatibility.

“Digi-Net, through Groopz and DigiChat AV, is a recognized leader in the e-commerce and online collaboration space,” said Andrei Khapugin, Excelsior CEO. “Our adoption of the technology is essential to our growth strategy moving forward.”

Excelsior licensed the Groopz E-Commerce technology to provide real-time proactive sales and customer service support aimed at increasing customer acquisition rates and improving customer satisfaction.

Excelsior produces a line of products designed to enhance the performance of Java applications. Java applications are transformed into native executables, instead of traditional Java bytecode, resulting in faster and more efficient applications.

Excelsior (www.excelsior-usa.com) is a privately held company established in 1999 and headquartered in the Novosibirsk Scientific Centre, Russia. They are the leading Java performance solutions provider in the industry and supply their technologies to the Russian Space Industry and technology companies around the world. Excelsior also provides consulting services to companies in Europe, Asia, and North America.
